THE UKZN TRANSFORMATION CHARTER

OUR VISION

The vision of the University of KwaZulu-Natal (the University) is “to be the Premier University of African Scholarship”. The achievement of this vision is dependent on the transformation of the University.

The notion of transformation which the University embraces is deeper and broader than a narrow categorization based on race and gender representation. It means changing the identity and culture of the University in every aspect of its mission.

Transformation is profoundly advanced by improving the quality of human relationships, and meaningful behavioural change can best bring the identity and culture of the University into alignment with its vision.

OUR ASPIRATIONS

We ASPIRE TO BE a transformed university which:

- Heals the divisions of our nation’s past, bridges racial and cultural divides, and lays the foundations for a university that is united in its diversity;
- Promotes high quality research, excellent teaching and learning, and responsible community engagement;
- Promotes African scholarship in every discipline and uBuntu/Botho in its organisational culture;
- Embraces socially and contextually relevant curricula that reflect the University’s location in South Africa, Africa and the World;
- Recognises the importance and value of African languages as academic languages;
- Prioritises the well-being and growth of every individual student and staff member;
- Reflects race and gender representation in its management structures, personnel profile, and student population;
- Is socially cohesive and inclusive;
- Is free of discrimination on the basis of ethnicity, race, gender, class, nationality, religion sexual orientation and disability;
- Nurtures collegiality, recognises and respects difference, and celebrates diversity;
- Reflects a new and refreshing culture of tolerance, understanding and vibrant engagement within the University community.
OUR CURRENT CONTEXT

We RECOGNISE that:

- Our transformation has already begun, and that considerable progress has been made;
- The University nevertheless still has much to achieve to realize its transformation objectives.

OUR COMMITMENT

We COMMIT ourselves:

- to the principles and values enshrined in the Constitution of the Republic of South Africa, notably:
  (i) Human dignity, the achievement of equality and the advancement of human rights and freedoms; and
  (ii) Non-racialism and non-sexism.
- to the principles of efficiency, integration and devolution that underpin the Statute of the University;
- to the UKZN PACT, which promotes mutual respect, responsibility, and excellence in teaching and learning;
- to work together until the objectives set out below are manifested in our University.

Therefore, we the staff and students of the University of KwaZulu-Natal adopt this Transformation Charter.

OUR CHARTER

The University shall be a place where:

Research, Teaching, Learning and Scholarship are a Vocation for All

- Access to learning will continue to be promoted to advance social transformation and redress;
- Scholars will pursue their studies in accordance with the principle of freedom of inquiry and research;
- Scholars will advance knowledge and culture through globally-competitive research and scholarship, and research-led teaching and learning;
- Research and curricula will be socially and contextually relevant;
- African languages will be promoted as academic languages;
- The University will be student-centred and provide a caring environment for every student;
A holistic approach to education, characterized by excellence in teaching and learning, will produce skilled self-confident and socially responsible graduates, conscious of their role in contributing to the national development effort and social transformation.

Race and Gender Representation is Evident in All Structures

- The staff profile of the University at all occupational levels will reflect the demographics of our province and country;
- Gender equity within the management levels of the University will be ensured, and women will be adequately represented in all management structures;
- The implementation of employment equity and the advancement of designated groups within the University structures will be part of the performance management requirements of all line managers;
- Mentorship programmes that develop, support and nurture black and female academic staff members will be provided;
- Mentorship and professional development programmes that attract and retain staff of the highest calibre, develop all staff to their full potential, and meet equity objectives will be developed.

A Socially Cohesive and Inclusive Institutional Culture Thrives

- Social cohesion will be valued and promoted through engagement and understanding, tolerance and respect for diversity in all its forms;
- Every individual will be encouraged to promote social interaction among diverse social groupings, whether among or between staff and students;
- The University will adopt, implement and monitor policies and procedures that aim to eliminate discrimination in all its manifestations including ethnicity, race, gender, nationality, class, religion, sexual orientation and disability;
- Processes will be devised in such a way as to break a code of silence around instances of discrimination in any form;
- Structures and procedures for problem-solving and dispute resolution will be strengthened to handle grievances in a fair and constructive manner;
- The University will enhance on-going education and training for staff and students that sensitises the University community to the lived experiences of its diverse constituencies. It will in this way foster understanding and tolerance, and promote the celebration of diversity;
- The social and personal well-being of staff and students, and an enabling environment for the realization of their full human potential, will be actively promoted.

Good Modes of Governance are Enshrined

- Good corporate governance will be ensured through commitment to democratic representation, devolution, consultation, accountability and transparency;
- Governance, leadership and management will be practiced in a manner that encourages and facilitates positive, proactive, and continuous institutional transformation;

- The University leadership and management will be responsible and directly accountable for creating an environment that cherishes diversity and equity, and which is conducive to respect, tolerance and understanding.

The Right to Freedom of Expression is Guaranteed

- Every individual whether student or staff is a valued member of the University community, and each voice will have the right to be heard;

- Ongoing debate and dialogue on all aspects of transformation and organisational culture will be fostered;

- The University will enhance its role as a leader in transformation by holding regular debates and discussions that will broaden understanding, and identify trends that inhibit and obstruct transformation;

- These engagements will be conducted according to commonly developed “rules of debate” appropriate to a university that espouses critical thinking and well-founded argument;

- Members of Senate will participate actively in debates and discussions and will assume a responsibility in preparing the University for the advent of the broader transformational challenges inherent in global change and the achievement of the University’s vision;

- The right to freedom of expression will be counterbalanced by responsibility, accountability and the limitations spelt out within the Constitution of the Republic of South Africa.

Advancement of the Transformation Agenda is the Responsibility of All

- All members of the University community will understand the meaning of transformation and accept individual and collective responsibility for its advancement;

- Leaders within all stakeholder groupings will play a critical role in advancing the transformation agenda;

- Leaders will develop a shared understanding of transformational leadership behaviour, and practice it;

- Key stakeholder groupings will commit to the process of transformation, and contribute actively to it by clearly defining their roles and responsibilities, and improving interpersonal stakeholder relationships at all levels;

- Academics will embrace the notion that universities are places of reflection to extend the boundaries of human existence and will acknowledge the centrality of human relationships in meeting the challenges of our times, and in realising the vision and strategic objectives of the University;

- Students will recognise that they have individual and collective responsibilities to participate in the building of an institutional identity based on mutual respect and tolerance;
Staff members will take pride in making the University an institution where courtesy; accountability; mutual respect and efficiency are core values.

University of KwaZulu-Natal Pact

We, the staff and students of the University of KwaZulu-Natal agree to treat each other with respect, to abide by the rules and regulations of the institution and to commit ourselves to excellence in research-led teaching and learning.

ACADEMIC MONITORING AND EXCLUSION

INFORMATION for STUDENTS

INTRODUCTION

The Academic Monitoring and exclusions Policy applies to all students registered in undergraduate degrees across all Colleges. An extract from the policy is included below for the information of students.

The Academic Monitoring and Exclusion Policy is based on a system of classifying student academic performance as “good academic standing”; “at risk” or “severely underperforming” with appropriate interventions and actions for each category. Every undergraduate student’s performance is assessed at the end of each semester and their status, based on their academic performance at the end of the semester or subsequent supplementary exams, is determined and reflected on the student administration system as “green”, “orange” or “red”.

The aim of this policy is to enable underperforming students to be identified early and offered academic, personal and careers counselling. Appropriate interventions and systems of support are expected to reduce dropout rates and exclusions and to improve throughputs and completion rates.

Specifically the implementation of this policy means that no academically underperforming student will be excluded from the university in their first year of study. However, it also means that if a student does not respond to support interventions and continues to underperform, s/he will be required to appeal for readmission to the same or a different College after three semesters at university. If readmitted and does not meet set probation requirement while on final probation, then the student will be excluded after four semesters and no further appeals allowed.

Appeals are first considered at College level (CEACOM). All unsuccessful appeals will be referred to a university wide committee (AEACOM) for final decision.

Students will finally be excluded from the university on account of poor academic performance after all other avenues have failed to restore their academic performance to the required level.

Exclusion holds for a minimum period of one year unless otherwise stipulated. Thereafter a student may apply for admission to the same or another College at UKZN if s/he is able to demonstrate that s/he has achieved a level of competence satisfactory to the relevant College or has resolved the personal circumstances that led to poor performance. Admission or readmission will be at the discretion of the College to which the student applies and according their admission requirements. Colleges will specify broad guidelines for what will be deemed satisfactory competence level for readmission.
CLASSIFICATION OF ACADEMIC PERFORMANCE

Each College defines minimum progression requirements, either on a College-wide basis or per qualification or group of qualifications. These are used in categorising academic performance. The categories of academic performance and the consequent interventions and actions are as follows:

Good academic standing (Green)

New students who register for the first time and have not transferred from another College of the university are initially deemed to be of good academic standing and coded green. A student remains coded green provided s/he has passed at least 75% of the maximum expected credit load to date and also has passed 70% or more of the normal credit load this semester. These are regarded as acceptable performance levels; however optional counselling and support is available if requested.

At risk (Orange)

A student who is at risk is required to participate in a compulsory developmental programme including academic counselling, a possible modified curriculum as well as student counselling for personal, life skills and/or career counselling.

A student may be deemed “at risk” when:

- his/her performance is above the applicable minimum progression requirements for that qualification or College but is not at the level of “green”, that is, s/he has not passed 75% of the maximum expected credits to date;
- fewer than 70% of the normal credit load has been passed in the current semester.
- credits are below the applicable minimum progression requirements for that qualification or College but the student has been registered for 1 semester only, the student is placed on academic probation with specific and realistic conditions. Even if such a student is performing below the applicable minimum progression requirements s/he will remain at risk (orange) provided s/he continues to meet the set probation requirements which are reviewed each semester.

Underperforming (Red)

A student will be coded red when his/her performance falls below the applicable minimum progression requirements for that qualification or College and s/he has been registered for 2 semesters or more. The first time a student becomes “red” s/he is placed on strict academic probation. After compulsory academic and personal or career counselling s/he may be permitted to continue in the same qualification or may be advised to redirect to another qualification in the same or another College.

A student will become “red” for a second time if s/he does not achieve the probation conditions set in the previous semester or if, after improving performance for a period, the student again drops below the required levels. In this case, the student must appeal to be readmitted to the same or a different qualification or College. If a student is readmitted following a successful appeal, s/he is placed on final probation with specific conditions to be met and continued academic support.

If a student who was severely underperforming (“red”) responds to interventions, achieves probation requirements and eventually works back to good academic standing (“green”), s/he will be deemed to be rehabilitated and the previous period as “red” will not be considered should s/he subsequently lapse.

If a student does not respond to such interventions and s/he continues to underperform s/he must appeal for readmission and may or may nor be readmitted on final probation. If readmitted and still does not respond to interventions while on final probation the student will be excluded. No further appeals are allowed.

Students who transfer between qualifications carry their history and academic status with them. Students will normally only be accepted into a new qualification if they are able to complete the new degree in the maximum time permitted for this degree, which includes the semesters they have already spent at UKZN and for which they may have generated credits towards the new degree.

The implementation of the policy is illustrated in the flow diagram overleaf.

1. Anthropology

Anthropology is the study of humankind, its common roots and the sources of its rich diversity. The discipline’s uniqueness lies in its global, comparative, and diachronic perspective. Anthropologists believe that a true understanding of the human condition can only be achieved by studying the distant as well as the near, the ancient as well as the modern. Different branches of the discipline focus on different aspects of human experience, such as how our species evolved, how traditions of thought and behaviour are learned, how and why cultures change or persist. As the ‘global village’ and its development challenges expand, people who possess different values, religions, customs and perspectives increasingly find themselves competing for scarce resources while trying to live together. For such reasons, there is a growing demand for the expertise and methodologies of people trained in anthropology.

4. Classics

Classics is in general terms the study of ancient civilisations, particularly those of ancient Greece and Rome. The discipline offers three study-routes, which can be followed independently or in combination through the BA and the BSoScSc (General Studies) degrees: Classical Civilisation (the study of literatures, mythologies, art and archaeology, history and culture, with particular focus on aspects of the ancient Mediterranean world relevant to Africa); Classical Greek language and literature; and Classical Latin language and literature. In all these study-routes, students acquire skills of analytical and comparative thinking, articulate and intelligent use of written and spoken language, and broad cultural literacy.
5. Classics: Classical Civilisation
Howard College

The major normally consists of eight Classical Civilisation semester-modules. Classical Latin and Classical Greek modules may also form part of the Classical Civilisation major, but credit for these modules cannot be claimed later for a major in Classical Latin or Classical Greek.

10. Digital Arts

The undergraduate major encompasses two areas of study: a creative component aimed at helping students develop the skills needed to exploit the multi-creative possibilities that have been unleashed by the digital revolution and a theoretical component in which contextualizes the creative practices of Digital Arts in terms of its historical and contemporary discourses. The undergraduate programme consists of 8 modules, 2 taken in the 1st year of study, 2 in the 2nd and 4 in the 3rd. These modules are divided into 4 “theory” modules and 4 “practical” modules, although this is a very loose distinction, since the theory modules incorporate a certain amount of practical work and the practical components draw on and extend students' theoretical understanding.

15. English

English Studies covers important areas of literature and essay-writing as part of its concern with developing critical and communicative skills, and extends its interest in expressive modes such as translation. Both the material and the skills taught in English Studies have proved themselves extremely adaptable: apart from excelling in the field of English Studies itself, students have gone on to careers that include education, the media, law, public administration, and management.

In order to complete the major, all students must take eight modules across three levels of study. Not all modules are necessarily available on both campuses.

18. French

From 2018 French will be consolidated in Pietermaritzburg with the first level also being offered in Howard College

French is an international language, which is spoken in more than twenty countries in Africa; it is valued highly as a vehicle for literature, thought, diplomacy, and is the third most useful language for business (Bloomberg rankings). The quickening pace of African co-operation, of globalization, with its developing opportunities for employment, makes a thorough knowledge of the language and culture of France and Francophone countries particularly relevant and rewarding.

The discipline offers stimulating, high-quality courses, which anticipate the changing needs of our society. It seeks to provide

- a thorough knowledge of the language so as to allow our students to use French in the working world;
- a critical understanding of the culture of France which has contributed to shaping today's world and provided concepts and paradigms which continue to influence contemporary South Africa and the world;
- a challenge, through the confrontation of our world with the ideas contained in Francophone literature and thought;
- an education, by teaching students to think critically and to express themselves logically and articulately, thus enabling them to communicate broadly in the family of nations.

20. History

South Africa is changing fast, as is the global order in which we live. Understanding change, and managing it at personal and social levels, depends to a large extent on our appreciation and understanding of history. Courses and projects aim to help students to understand how major issues in today’s world and in South Africa have come about - in the wider world, huge imbalances of power and wealth, skewed development, racial, gender and religious bigotry, rampant consumerism and environmental degradation; and in South Africa, the need to consolidate democracy, to expand urban and rural development, to raise levels of education and social welfare, to combat racism and other forms of discrimination and to promote a sense of national identity. The discipline gives students the opportunity to enter the exciting world of historical study and to apply what they learn to their own experience.

25. Kiswahili
Modules may not be offered in 2018

At the students' level, the contents in these modules are expected to satisfy students' desires to better enhance their knowledge about east and central Africa through language, culture, and research from multiple learning angles. Furthermore, knowledge in Kiswahili gives students, especially South Africans not only a chance to socially, culturally, and politically integrate with their ancestral sisters and brothers in the Kiswahili speaking countries, but most importantly a tool to economically function by widening their employment chances in the east and central Africa based South African companies.

26. Legal Studies

Offered by the School of Law

The modules that make up the Legal Studies major are offered by the School of Law. Please note that, with the exception of Jurisprudence (see note below), the modules listed below are the only Law modules that can be taken for credit in a BA or BSocSc degree. Further, it is important to note that only students who intend to major in Legal Studies will be allowed to register for Introduction to Law and Aspects of South African Law, and that the prerequisite for proceeding to Legal Studies 2 is a combined average of at least 60% for these two first-year modules.

Linguistics is the scientific study of language. Modules offered in the Linguistics undergraduate programme systematically equip students with skills in analysing language structure, language in society and language as a cognitive ability of humans. These skills qualify students to work in a wide range of areas requiring a sound knowledge and understanding of how language is organised structurally and put to use. Included in these are, for example, translation and interpretation; media and publishing; law; speech therapy; tourism and public relations; language teaching; language policy consultancy; human resources management and intercultural communication.

31. Media and Cultural Studies

Media and Cultural Studies is a cluster of disciplines related to the study of the modern mass media such as newspapers, radio, film, television and the new digital media. Although the main focus of the undergraduate degree is on the theoretical analysis and understanding of these media, we do also offer students some opportunities to develop their practical skills in media production.

In order to complete the major students must take eight modules (PMB) and seven modules (HC) across three levels of study, including modules that are designated as compulsory. Note: not all modules are necessarily available on both campuses.

1. Philosophy

Philosophy means the love of wisdom. Students of Philosophy explore ideas about our world and ourselves, examining them systematically and critically, in order to work out what we should believe. Philosophy gives you the opportunity to carefully question, think about, write about, and discuss fundamental aspects of your existence. At the same time it fosters essential skills in analysing, constructing and evaluating arguments, critical reading, problem solving, and independent thinking.

2. Political Science

Political Science modules at the University of KwaZulu-Natal draw students into the systematic study of power and its exercise at the global, regional, national and local levels. The Discipline offers modules on the politics of South and Southern Africa, comparative politics and government, African politics, international relations and international political economy, the politics of developing countries and political theory. The Political Science major is structured so that students become familiar with each of the principal fields of political studies. Students, subject to College progression rules, may take any of the modules on a ‘stand-alone’ basis.

For majors to graduate:
- All Political Science majors must take all modules listed as CORE for majors
- All Political Science majors will choose one of 5 specialism streams (political theory/philosophy; international relations/IPE; comparative government; African politics; area studies and complete at least 2 modules in the specialist stream, one of which must be at third level.

40. Translation Studies

These modules may not be offered in 2018.

Owing to the increased demand for qualified translators, text editors and publishers in South Africa with its eleven official languages, a degree with Translation Studies as major is a very desirable option. Even if the whole programme in Translation Studies is not undertaken, Translation courses in a general degree can be valuable assets to journalists, media experts and language practitioners.

To major in Translation Studies students have to do two modules of a language in their first year and complete 2 Translation Studies modules in their second year plus another four at third-year level. In addition they must major in one of the languages listed below.

The degree structure for students wishing to major in Translation Studies is as follows:

Bachelor of Arts in Music

The BA in Music offers students an opportunity to specialise in music to a greater extent than is possible in the general BA degree. The curriculum includes both the academic and the practical study of music and is flexible so that it can be tailored to students' career plans.

a) Students may be advised to take a particular language module according to the College's assessment of their language requirements.

b) Students who choose African Music and Dance must include Music Ensemble A and B at each level.
Students must complete at least 32 credits in non-music modules at first, second, or third level and at least 224 credits in music modules at first, second, and third level. Thus students may choose whether to study music or non-music modules for 128 credits of the 384-credit degree. This allows students to complete a second major, should they wish to do so. Students pursuing the BA in Music degree will be permitted to graduate with a minimum of two modules (namely, Music plus at least one non-Music module) instead of the four that are usually mandatory for the BA degree. Students majoring in African Music and Dance are encouraged to take modules from Cultural and Heritage Tourism in consultation with the Dean and Head of School.

Bachelor of Arts or Bachelor of Social Science in Politics, Philosophy and Economics

(Will not be offered in 2018)

The disciplines of political science, philosophy and economics have long been regarded as cognate. Few aspects of economic behaviour are without political dimensions, and political behaviour and processes can seldom be understood without knowledge of economics. To understand and explain such phenomena adequately one needs to adopt a theoretical stance which, in turn, requires skills in conceptual analysis and abstract reasoning. There is no better disciplinary basis for such abstract reasoning than training in philosophy.

HUM-PPE1 Curriculum

To graduate with a BA or BSocSc (PPE) students must successfully major in at least two of the three component disciplines and must successfully complete all the first and second level modules.
required for the third discipline. In addition, students should, in consultation with the Dean and Head of School, choose at least two appropriate semesters of mathematics (preferably including statistics), or recognized equivalents, at the first level.

Finally, specific to this degree programme, there will be an interdisciplinary seminar taught at the third-year level, participation in which will be compulsory. In the exceptional case of a student who chooses, and is permitted, to major in all three modules, the requirement that he or she participate in this interdisciplinary seminar will be waived.

Bachelor of Social Work

The purpose of the undergraduate Social Work programme is to provide graduates with knowledge, skills, values and competencies for practice in governmental and non-governmental organisations or as private practitioners within urban and/or rural contexts.

South African Council for Social Service Professions

From their second year of study all students registered for the Bachelor of Social Work are required to register with the South African Council for Social Service Professions (SACSSP) and are bound by the Council’s regulations. A once-off fee is charged for registration with the Council as a student social worker. Students will be advised of their responsibilities and the fee requirement at the beginning of the second year of study. Students may not undertake any practice course in social work unless they are registered with the SACSSP as student social workers. Failure to comply with this requirement is a criminal offence.

It is the students’ responsibility to ensure that they are registered with the Council. Students will be required to provide proof of registration with the Council in order to register for the level 3 and 4 practice modules.

RULES FOR POSTGRADUATE DEGREES, CERTIFICATES AND DIPLOMAS

The College of Humanities is a large and diverse college that is home to a great number of disciplines and postgraduate offerings. The ready-reference section that follows is intended to facilitate your navigation through the plethora of modules on offer. The section is arranged alphabetically by discipline.

A more detailed description of each discipline’s module offerings will be found elsewhere. The disciplines were asked to provide the most comprehensive listings possible. It goes without saying, however, that not every one of the offerings listed by the disciplines will necessarily be available every year. Some will not be - normally as a consequence of non-availability of staff and/or lack of student interest. Naturally, disciplines reserve the right to add or withdraw offerings from time to time.

A Key to the Postgraduate Module Codes

We use a coding system consisting of nine characters that is used as follows:

The first four characters are alphabetical and identify the discipline: e.g. CLAS stands for Classics.

- The fifth character is numerical and identifies the level of the offering:
  - 6 refers to a Postgraduate Diploma
  - 7 refers to Honours level
  - 8 refers to Masters level
  - 9 refers to Doctoral level

The next two characters may be either numerical or alphabetical.
If they are numerical they are a taught-course descriptor: e.g. the 02 in CMDV602HC refers to the taught module “Ethical Issues and Social Responsibility”, a taught module in the Diploma programme offered by the discipline of Community Development.

If the sixth and seventh characters are alphabetical, they are ordinarily a research descriptor: e.g. the RP in AHIS7RPP2 refers to an Honours level Research Paper (or Project) forming part of the Art History Honours programme. Similarly, the SD in DEVS8SDHC refers to the Short Dissertation forming part of the taught Masters programme in Development Studies.

At the Honours level, there are two Research options:
RP: A project or paper of approx. 7000 words (approx. 24 pages) counting 32 credits.
RZ: A project of approx. 3500 words (approx. 12 pages) counting 16 credits.

At the Masters level, three Research options are available:
MD (192C): the full Masters dissertation (Masters by dissertation only). This entails the writing of a dissertation of approx. 40 000 words (approx. 135 pages).

CD (128C): Coursework Dissertation. This is a document of approx. 27 000 words (approx. 90 pages).

SD (96C): Short Dissertation. This is a document of approx. 20 000 words (approx. 68 pages).

The Doctoral Thesis is coded DO. This research undertaking should be approximately 80 000 words long (approx. 270 pages). It carries a credit value of 384 credits.

The eighth character is a location designator: H stands for Howard College, P for Pietermaritzburg, W for Westville. Sometimes you will come across a configuration that includes both an H and a P, for example: AFRN724HC PC. What this signals is that the module in question (here the Afrikaans/Nederlands Honours module “Jeugliteratuur”) is offered on both the Howard College and Pietermaritzburg campuses.

The ninth and last character is an academic-session designator. Accordingly, 1 stands for the first semester, 2 for the second. C stands for Choice: in other words, the module could run in either semester. B stands for Both semesters, and ordinarily appears in the Research codes. Y stands for Year and refers to a taught module extending over both semesters. (Apart from a few exceptions that extend over both semesters, taught modules are organised on either a semester-long (ordinarily 13 week) or quarter-long (ordinarily 6/7 week) basis. Typically, a semester-long taught module forms part of a larger semester-based structure, while a quarter-long taught module forms part of a larger quarter-based structure. Whether a module extends over a semester or over a quarter has no necessary bearing upon its credit value.)

This postgraduate programme covers the rise of English Studies as a discipline, both in South Africa and worldwide. The course modules are designed to introduce higher-level students to the various historical movements and critical discourses that have shaped the subject of English, as we know it today, and to stimulate their research interests. In addition to considering different literary forms of the past in their contexts, the modules also focus on theoretical issues around the production of literary and non-literary cultural texts. These include the politics of gender in Western European and African writing, and the responses to colonisation in the so-called new ‘englishes’ of the postcolonial world. The importance is recognised, too, of new areas of critical concern for English studies that have emerged in recent years, such as orality, the expression of identity in terms of mass and popular culture.

23. Politics, Philosophy, Economics (Howard College)

(May not be offered in 2018)

There is an acute need in South Africa for graduates who will be able to participate in public life with the specific range of skills and knowledge that a postgraduate PPE degree provides. Such graduates will be philosophically literate, thoroughly conversant with the discourses of political analysis, and able both to deploy effectively the rigorous technical skills imparted by a good training in Economics. The module combinations in the degree programmes reflect the 'natural' cognateness of these three disciplines. Multi-disciplinary in character, the PPE degrees offer some level of flexibility at each level of study, particularly with respect to additional elective modules.

Bachelor of Social Science Honours

1. Anthropology (Howard College)

Anthropology is the study of humankind, its common roots and the sources of its rich diversity. The discipline’s uniqueness lies in its global, comparative, and diachronic perspective. Anthropologists believe that a true understanding of the human condition can only be achieved by studying the distant as well as the near, the ancient as well as the modern. Different branches of the discipline focus on different aspects of human experience, such as how our species evolved, how traditions of thought and behaviour are learned, how and why cultures change or persist. As the ‘global village’ and its development challenges expand, people who possess different values, religions, customs and perspectives increasingly find themselves competing for scarce resources while trying to live together. For such reasons, there is a growing demand for the expertise and methodologies of people trained in anthropology.

Electives
- ANTH701 Local Knowledge and Sustainable Development (16C)

HUM-MMUS1 Progression

Every Masters student is assigned to one of the ‘home’ Programmes listed below. The following are the Core/Elective modules contributing to the various postgraduate Coursework Programmes on offer (all modules carry 32 credits unless otherwise indicated):

26. Politics, Philosophy and Economics (Howard College and Pietermaritzburg)

There is an acute need in South Africa for graduates who will be able to participate in public life with the specific range of skills and knowledge that a postgraduate PPE degree provides. Such graduates will be philosophically literate, thoroughly conversant with the discourses of political analysis, and able both to deploy effectively the rigorous technical skills imparted by a good training in Economics. The module combinations in the degree programmes reflect the 'natural' cognateness of these three disciplines. Multi-disciplinary in character, the PPE degrees offer some level of flexibility at each level of study, particularly with respect to additional elective modules.

Culture, Communication and Media Studies

Offered in the School of Applied Human Sciences

Research Methodology for Media and Cultural Studies
CCMS731 H1  (0L-0T-0P-13S-121H-0R-0F-0G-3A-13W-16C)
Aim: This module is a ‘backbone’ module to provide research approaches and competencies which can be applied to all areas of study in media, communication and cultural studies.
Content: Students are introduced to the process of choosing, formulating and planning a research project and proposal, including the ethical considerations embedded in their work. Students are taken through the various theoretical traditions and paradigms that have influenced the study of media, communication and culture; both globally and in the African context. Specific attention is paid to the indigenisation and appropriation of ‘imported’ theoretical frameworks to meet local, African needs, cosmologies and ethics. Students receive hands-on instruction and experiential exercises in the approach to compiling a literature review, and importantly, creating a bibliography. Two sections, one on ‘qualitative research’ and the other on ‘quantitative research’ cover the intricacies of collecting, organising and analysing data. The module closes with workshops on the structuring and finalisation, including copy-editing, styles and layouts, of the research report, dissertation or thesis.
Assessment: 2 Summative Tests (50%); 1 theoretical essay (50%).
DP Requirement: Timeous submission of all written assignments and projects; minimum of 80% attendance at all seminars and practicals.

The contemporary ecology of the media is studied both in relation to print and broadcast media. Political-economic issues of ownership, control and regulation guide the theoretical approach to this module. In the print media, this allows for an exploration of the establishment and realignments of the major press houses; while in broadcasting, the radical changes of the introduced by the advent of full democracy in the early 1990s, liberalised the sector significantly. Particular attention is paid to community media, and the manner in which the introduction of the Internet has impacted the media scene. All these themes are drawn together with a consideration of the six major media conglomerates now dominating the South African Mediascape.

Assessment: 2 Summative Tests (50%); 1 theoretical essay (50%).

DP Requirement: Timeous submission of all written assignments and projects; minimum of 80% attendance at all seminars and practicals.

Media Theory

Students will consider and critique debates about the nature of the state and civil society, the meaning of ‘development’, and the role of education. Theorists/writers such as Marx, Gramsci, Foucault, Sartre, Amin, Sen, Fanon, Mamdani, Bernstein, Stoller, Freire, Giroux, etc., will be considered.

LING101 H1
Aim: To introduce students to the scientific study of language
Content: We provide students with insights into the intricate facets of language by introducing them to various areas of linguistic research. We discuss the acquisition of language, its representation in the brain/mind, its use in different social contexts and the interaction between linguistic findings and selected fields of application. The course also includes a section on research methods to develop students' academic skills of writing and analysis.
Assessment: Assessment: 1 test (20%); 2 assignments (30%); 1 three-hour examination (50%).
DP Requirement: Class mark (= test and both assignments) of at least 40%.
Linguistics 1B: Intro to Language studies
LING102 H2
Prerequisite Requirement: Recommended: Linguistics 1A
Aim: To introduce students to the key concepts and analytical skills employed in the study of language.
Content: Various sub-disciplines of linguistics are studied in relation to one of the most important assumptions of modern linguistic theory: the concept of language as a “mental organ”, which expresses the idea that all humans possess the innate ability to learn and understand language. The discussions in the course are based on examples from empirical linguistic research and from areas in which linguistic expertise is relevant (e.g. law; language policy and literacy planning in South Africa; media and translation; speech therapy).
Assessment: 1 test (20%); 2 assignments (30%); 1 three-hour examination (50%).
DP Requirement: Class mark (=test and both assignments) of at least 40%.

Linguistics 2A: Language & Diversity

Prerequisite Requirement: Recommended: Linguistics 1A,1B
Aim: To introduce students to key issues relating to multilingualism and multiculturalism in South Africa.
Content: Multilingualism and language planning issues are explored through acquainting students with aspects of South Africa's linguistic heritage and diversity. Particular attention is given to phenomena such as language contact (e.g. code-switching and mixing, pidgins and creoles), language spread (e.g. new dialects of English) and language loss (e.g. the case of Tamil). Students will investigate the sociolinguistic features of these phenomena and carry out a small-scale empirical research project.
Assessment: 1 test (20%); 1 research project (30%); 1 three-hour examination (50%)
DP Requirement: Submission of all written work on time.

Linguistics 2B: The Multilingual mind
LING204 H2
Prerequisite Requirement: Recommended: Linguistics 1A,1B, 2A
Aim: To familiarise students with the cognitive dimensions of linguistics.
Content: In this course we investigate the nature of the cognitive processes underlying the production, perception and comprehension of natural language. We cover psycholinguistics (the study of these language-processing mechanisms) and techniques of formal linguistic analysis, in order to explore the nature of the mental representations that form the basis of speakers' linguistic competence. (This module is of particular relevance for students in cognitive science.)
Assessment: Weekly tutorial questions, four homework assignments, one small scale research project (20%), one three-hour examination (50%).
DP Requirement: Submission of all written work on time.

Aim: To investigate the relation between language use in social contexts, discourse structure and general cognition.
Content: Students are introduced to classical and current accounts of speech act theory and discourse analysis. We study linguistic forms and the rules that determine their distribution and we consider the general principles of interpretation which people use when making sense of what they hear and read. On the basis of theoretical findings from Linguistics, Philosophy, Cognitive Psychology, and Computer Science, we investigate how people use discourse to promote and contest the value systems and social relations of power with which they are associated.
Assessment: 2 assignments and 1 small-scale research report (40%); 1 three-hour examination (60%).
DP Requirement: Submission of all written work on time.

In comparing the structural properties of a number of languages, we observe striking similarities and interesting differences, and we discuss these observations in relation to the idea of an innate (and therefore universal) underlying linguistic competence. We look at the rules and principles that determine the architecture of phrases and sentences in human language, and we discuss contemporary analyses of a variety of syntactic phenomena.

The Personal is the Professional
PSYC858 H1
(0L-0T-0P-160H-0R-0F-0G-0A-15W-16C)
Prerequisite Requirement: None.
Corequisite: None.
Aim: The aim of the module is to develop reflexive professionals who can provide an appropriate service to individuals, communities and to society. Collectively students construct and deconstruct social and educational worlds to contribute to a better, more nuanced understanding of learning, educational and societal processes. An evidence based personal, professional and academic portfolio is developed to be used throughout their professional career. The multidisciplinary nature of the course lends itself to embodiment of working within a team consisting of different sectors as part of the learning process.

Content: The module develops the ability of the student to be reflexive and critical by deconstructing their own life stories. The past, present as well as future are relevant. Reflexivity forms an important part of our theoretical base and is used to promote critical thinking and transformative learning. The complexity of history and transformation of the South African context we live in requires that students are prepared sufficiently to deal with complex layers in understanding behaviour and behaviour change as well as position themselves ethically. Individual stories as well as the grand narrative of our country is juxtaposed and deconstructed. The active and continuous consideration of how things potentially differ from the way they may appear to us is what leads to critical reflection. This process is often only possible through dialogue which promotes respect for difference, collaboration and connectedness.
